How's my view? New site for that

Sports fans go crazy for their teams, but one guy from South Philly has gone crazy for seats. He has begun a website — and made it his full-time job — to collect photos from seats in stadiums across the country and Britain. He has 7,000 so far. {page 02}

PAIGE OZAROSKI/METRO

▶ Panko, checking out the view from a seat at Citizens Bank Park yesterday, says he wants to give fans an advance view.

Thanks to a South Philadelphia man, there's no need to worry about purchasing a pricey stadium ticket and getting stuck behind a foul pole or glass partition.

At least that's the vision behind A View From My Seat, a website and Android app that encourages users to upload cell phone shots of, well, the view from their seats in thousands of venues around the world.

"The idea came out of me and my wife wanting to find a better place to sit before we bought Phillies season tickets," said creator Frank Panko, 36. "We looked around at a game and everyone had a smartphone, iPhone or Android and they were all taking photos."

The app, which was released in beta mode last July, currently shows views from over 7,000 seats across the country and about 600 in Philadelphia, where its following is the strongest.

Percent of users who are interested in Premier League soccer seats in Great Britain, which Panko said lacks a similar website

GET MORE METRO ONLINE: WWW.METRO.US

Baseball is the most popular sport, but people can send pictures from any event. "Some of the stuff we get surprises us: golf, some Nascar and monster truck rallies," said Panko, who quit his job two weeks ago to focus on developing the program full-time. "Outside of the U.S., we do well with soccer, especially the Premier League in the U.K. Whatever people send, as long as it's venue-related, we just try to adapt to it."

Though a View From My Seat currently has photos from 1,200 venues, Panko estimates that it covers less than 1 percent of available seats in the country, a figure he hopes to change. "I'd like to see if I can partner with a bigger company like StubHub or Ticketmaster to have photos show up when you're actually buying tickets or to get people discounts for every photo they share," Panko said.

ALEX WIGGLESWORTH
awigglesworth@metro.us

Info straight from fans' mouths

Though sites like Seat Data already offer a similar service, Panko sees them as like minds rather than competition.

"I could actually see working with Seat Data at some point — they're really just supplying seating charts and one photo from each section of an empty venue, but we're supplying actual game photos with comments from the fans," he said. "I'd like to think we're getting better content by going straight to the fans themselves." METRO/AW

Illegal pill scheme popped by feds

A 498-count indictment was unsealed yesterday charging 53 people in a drug conspiracy that allegedly garnered more than $5 million in less than three years and defrauded the federal government of an untold amount of money in health insurance payments.

William Stukes allegedly recruited patients for Dr. Norman Werther, who wrote fraudulent prescriptions for oxycodone-based drugs. The "pseudo-patients" took the prescriptions to Northeast Pharmacy on Bustleton Avenue, where pharmacist Ihsanullah "Sean" Maaf allegedly filled them.

The patients paid for the drugs using cash, private insurance or Medicaid, then allegedly turned the drugs over to Stukes for resale on the street. His organization allegedly distributed over 200,000 pills in Philadelphia and Montgomery County.

Forty-four of the 53 defendants were arrested yesterday. The other nine are fugitives. METRO/AW

Toomey will have a big say on debt

Pennsylvania senator to serve on supercommittee to tackle country's debt He's 'deeply honored to serve'

Republican U.S. Sen. Pat Toomey made waves these last few months by taking the hard stance against raising the debt ceiling without substantial cuts to the federal government's growing deficit, going so far as to say: "I'm not going to go along with some deal that raises the debt limit without making the real cuts in spending we need and the real process reform."

He then didn't vote for the debt ceiling increase last Tuesday, which was approved.

Now, he'll have the ultimate chance to weigh in on cutting $1 trillion or so in the next year after Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., appointed him to represent Senate Republicans on the supercommittee that will adopt what the whole Congress — presumably — will then pass to lower short-term deficit problems for the country.

RICARD LARMA/METRO

▶ Toomey

"I am deeply honored for the opportunity to serve on this bipartisan committee and to be part of the important work we will be doing," Toomey said yesterday after the appointment. "In light of last week's events, with the nation's credit downgrade and the deep drop in the markets, it is all the more imperative that this committee do its job effectively and come up with a product that both tackles our debt crisis and can help revive our failing economy."

▶ SEPTA is weighing options for its Regional Rail line that ends in Chester. A new station near PPL Park, pictured here, is the basis of a new study.

Chester could get new SEPTA station along waterfront

While the Chester City waterfront has seen significant development in recent years, including PPL Park and a converted office building, one thing has been missing: viable public transit options. That could soon change.

A new study from the Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission looks at the feasibility of building a SEPTA Regional Rail station on the Wilmington-Newark line that would link pedestrians to the stadium and other planned development. Highland Avenue, currently the closest station, is only expected to last another three to five years and would cost about $26 million to rebuild. It is also among the least-used stations on SEPTA with an average of 84 daily boards.

Best option

The study suggests a new station on Engle Street, a half-mile from both PPL Park and a planned mixed-use development. Costs are comparable to rebuilding the Highland station.

"I think that's an awesome idea," said Mike Naioti, of the Sons of Ben, the enthusiastic fan organization for the Union. "Right now, the best option is not really a good option."

SEPTA is still studying the proposals.

"The concern that we have right now is funding is always an issue," said Byron Comati, SEPTA's director of Strategic Planning.

No economic impact studies have been done on the proposals, said Thomas Moore, Mayor Wendell Butler's chief of staff.

"Having an enhanced public transit system to serve the waterfront core ... is obviously something we're very interested in," Moore said.

Arrests in July 29 wilding

CENTER CITY. The three Mastery Charter School students allegedly involved in a July 29 attack of a pedestrian surrendered yesterday, police confirmed.

Names and photos of the boys will not be released due to their juvenile status, but Mastery Charter CEO Scott Jordan said on Tuesday that all of the students involved were eighth- and ninth-graders at the school.

The students were identified after Mastery school officials obtained surveillance footage of the Fourth and Walnut Street beating and were able to positively identify three of the six teens involved. ● METRO/AW

More SEPTA service to game

SOUTH PHILADELPHIA. SEPTA will provide additional service for tonight's 7:30 p.m. Eagles exhibition game versus the Ravens at Lincoln Financial Field. There will be eight sports express trains on the Broad Street Line going to AT&T Station starting at 6:08 p.m. in addition to regular service. SEPTA will also run four extra trains on the Market-Frankford Line starting at about 6 p.m. ● METRO

Taliban killed who shot copter

KABUL. NATO-led forces killed the Taliban militants responsible for shooting down a U.S. helicopter last weekend but not the insurgent leader targeted in the doomed mission, the top U.S. and NATO commander in Afghanistan said yesterday. The disclosure by General John Allen came during a briefing on the crash that killed 30 U.S. forces — most of them elite Navy SEALs — in the single deadliest incident for the U.S. military in the Afghan war. REUTERS

FB closes inmate profiles

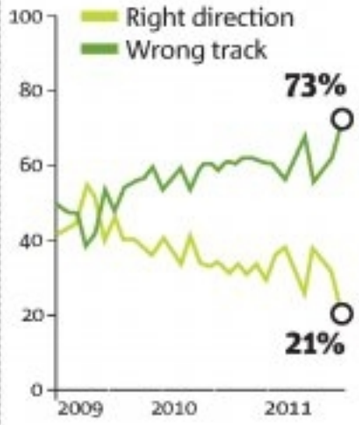
LOS ANGELES. Facebook has begun closing the accounts of California prison inmates after a convicted child molester viewed the pages of his victim from behind bars, authorities and the social networking site said Tuesday.

Facebook has shut down the accounts of at least two prisoners, and officials are working on identifying other accounts that had been accessed from behind bars, reports the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation.

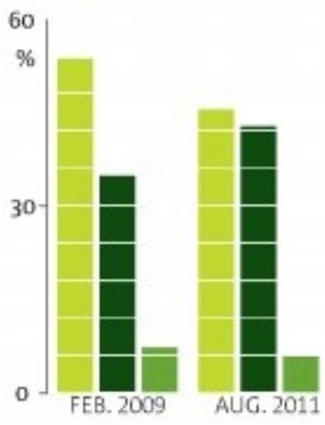
Though most prisoners in California do not have access to the Internet, they often log on to the Internet with contraband cell phones. REUTERS

Poll results

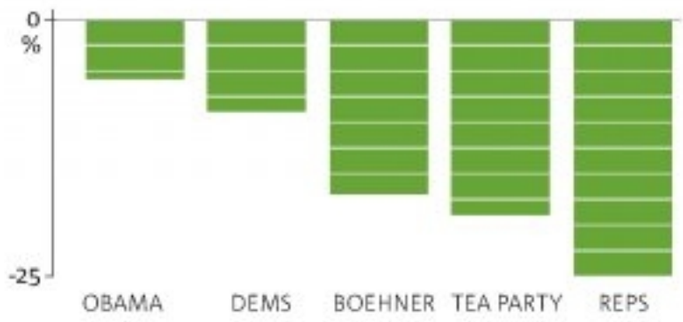
Are things in this country headed in the right direction or are they on the wrong track?



Is the economy's worst still to come? Has it stabilized, even if it's not improving yet? Or is it turning the corner for the better?



Do you feel more positive or negative toward each of the following after the recent deal to raise the debt ceiling?



Americans say US is on wrong track

Economic fears are weighing heavily on Americans, with a large majority saying the United States is on the wrong track and nearly half believing the worst is yet to come, a Reuters/Ipsos poll said yesterday.

The poll reflected growing anxiety about the economy and frustration with Washington after a narrowly averted government default last week, a credit rating downgrade by Standard & Poor's, a stock market dive and a stubbornly high 9.1 percent jobless rate.

President Barack Obama came out bruised but relatively intact from the brutal, weeks-long debt debate. His approval rating dropped to 45 percent from 49 percent from a month ago, according to the poll conducted from Thursday to Monday.

But negative views on the economy are worrisome signs as he looks ahead to his 2012 re-election bid. REUTERS

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

– Dorothy Robinson will return on Monday.

The feed ...

Checking in with some of Hollywood's biggest names to see what they've been up to — in their own words, in 140 characters or fewer.

Today, Eli Roth is trying to understand what's going on, Russell Brand is going to have to watch what he tweets now, Edgar Wright is curious and Sarah Silverman is less than optimistic.

Please make it stop, Jennifer Love Hewitt

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

▶ C'mon, JLove: What would Amanda Beckett do?

We always thought that Jennifer Love Hewitt was unfairly portrayed as, well, a pathetic sap. Sure, she maybe shared a little too much about her personal life. And then there was that cringe-worthy relationship advice book. But it was all rather harmless chatter in a world that spawned "The Real Housewives" franchise.

But now she's going after "Bachelorette" rejects on Twitter? She brought this one on herself.

Four days after so eloquently tweeting "Omg! Ben f except my final rose!!! Gotta book a flight to Sonoma !!!:):)", the 32-year-old actress did, indeed, show up in contestant Ben Flajnik's hometown. "It seemed like a first date, but he wasn't overly affectionate towards her. Then all of the sudden she grabbed him and started making out with him," a source tells UsMagazine.com.

We can't even handle that 1998's prom queen has sunk this low. But, well, just in case she's on to something: "Omg! Zac Efron accept my creepy date invite;)!!!"

J. Lo back for more 'Idol'

Jennifer Lopez was previously playing it coy about returning to the "American Idol" judges table; but she will, in fact, be back for Season 11, according to Executive Producer Nigel Lythgoe.

"I am delighted to say that all three judges, along with the brilliant host of 'American Idol,' [are] back for the next season," Lythgoe said yesterday during a call to "On Air with Ryan Seacrest."

Delighted? This guy is obviously not the one signing the checks or stocking the dressing rooms' minibars.

The ultimate 'Punk'd'

Although reports have Ashton Kutcher raking in around $700,000 per "Two and a Half Men" episode, TMZ claims to know it's actually in the $800,000 to $900,000 range. That's right: The guy who did "Punk'd" is replacing Charlie Sheen in a sitcom that has fueled eight seasons with little more than masturbation jokes, on which he'll earn millions upon millions.

Go think about what you've done. All of you.

Talking points

Aniston talking centerpieces?

Jennifer Aniston and boyfriend Justin Theroux are reportedly on the fast track to settling down together, according to Us Weekly. "They have talked at length about getting married and starting a family," a source says of the pair, who are currently vacationing in Hawaii. "She is anxious for the next phase of her life and feels like this is the time. They both want it to happen soon."

Our thoughts exactly ...

Anne Hathaway knows what you think about that first image of her as Catwoman that was released from the set of "The Dark Knight Rises." Hathaway confronted MTV News about the pic during an interview this week. "I asked someone to send me a few reactions," she says. "And I happen to know that MTV's reaction was 'meh.'" But the actress isn't worried. "What I am happy to say is, if you didn't like the photo, you only see about a tenth of what that suit can do. And if you did like the photo, you have excellent taste."

Someone needs a time-out

Justin Bieber is racking up more reports of bratty behavior, this time making a scene on an airplane with his entourage, according to Hollyscoop. The 17-year-old star and his posse reportedly wouldn't take their seats when asked. The plane's captain even came out to try to smooth things over, eventually asking Bieber for an autograph. ▶ Kuf Knotz

DENISE PERRI

Thinking outside the 'BoomBox Logic'

◗ Kuf Knotz is back in the business with his new solo album ◗ Where to catch him live this weekend

In 2007, Swarthmore native Kuf Knotz toured the country with the BurnDown All-Stars, playing packed venues and converting thousands of fans along the way. It was all due to being featured on the Fuse TV reality series, "Bodog Music Battle of the Bands."

But the bright lights of Hollywood didn't do much to cultivate the band. In fact, it broke them up.

"We were eight MCs and five band members, so their big thing was, 'You guys will never make it, because you're too big of a band,'" explains Knotz. "Then they started telling us certain members needed to go in order to get a record deal. When we got back, we had a lot interest from labels, but it was the same thing: We're too big."

Apparently, the powers that be never heard of the Roots.

These days, Knotz is promoting his first solo album, "BoomBox Logic," in as many local venues as he can find, from coffee shops to outdoor festivals. On Saturday, he's scheduled for double duty: By day he's playing the Jam at the Grove Festival in Ottsville Pa., and by night he headlines an enormous bill of hip-hop acts at the Fire.

He's even made inroads at WXPN — a station that's not exactly a hip-hop destination.

"I don't intentionally try to crossover, but I'm just open. I listen to everything," says Knotz. "When I play XPN events, a lot of times their core fan base will approach me and say something like, 'I'm not really into that hip-hop, rap stuff, but I enjoy your music,' so I guess there's something about it that's easier for them to swallow."

Double feature

At the Jam at the Grove Festival, Kuf Knotz will play with his full backing band, LP Stiles. Later that night, he plays a stripped-down set with vocalist Dave Vegas at the Fire.

Top five films

2 'The Help'
Emma Stone is en fuego this summer with her third release in two months, this time as a writer recording the lives of African-American domestic servants in the South in 1963.

3 'Glee: The 3D Concert Movie'
Put this in the same category as the Jonas Brothers' 3-D movie and that Bieber movie, and break out the studio money rakes!

4 'Final Destination 5'
Slowly but surely catching up to the "Saw" franchise, the kids in this movie may cheat death, but they will probably not escape lukewarm reviews.

5 'The Change-Up'
Body-switching comedies come around, oh, every three years or so, but this one starring Jason Bateman and Ryan Reynolds might be the first to offer plenty of raunch along the way.

5 Things you didn't know about Soave

Say what? Say Soave! Here's the history behind this Italian white wine, which is quickly making a comeback. Was it Romeo's favorite?

America's favorite white wine from Italy in the '70s and '80s, Soave decreased in popularity in the '90s as pinot grigio ascended. Thanks to the higher-quality wines and targeted communication campaigns, Soave is now regaining popularity with America's wine drinkers. Here, Soave winemakers share what you need to know.

▶ In Italian, Soave means 'smooth' or 'appealing'
The origin of the name comes from the Suevians, a people of German descent who moved to Italy with Alboin, the Longobard King, in the sixth century.

▶ Soave's lively acidity makes it a perfect complement for Japanese cuisine
Sushi, sashimi and tempura dishes have a complementary delicacy and lightness. Also, Soave should be chilled — but not ice-cold.

▶ Soave is for lovers
The vineyards of Soave are scattered across the hillsides of the Veneto east of Verona, the home of Romeo and Juliet. Just 50 miles from Soave is that other romantic Italian city, Venice.

▶ The main varietal in Soave is Garganega
Garganega is an indigenous grape that found an ideal habitat in the volcanic soil of Soave. With a long viticultural history dating back to the Roman era, Garganega is referred to frequently in Italian literature. Eons ago, the Soave area was covered by a tropical sea as evidenced by saline sediments in the soil that are expressed in the wine.

▶ The Soave Wine Road is an excellent way for travelers to experience Soave.
Roughly 30 miles long and passing through 13 wineries, this road showcases historic landmarks and architectural attractions, museums, fine restaurants and the landscapes of the Verona hills with their abundant olive and cherry trees. METRO

Turn that finger around

RE: "STOP POINTING FINGERS": We at the hated Tea Party understand how governments operate, so blaming us is silly! Any government from the days of caves until now always spends the taxed people's money. Blaming the Tea Party is just a distraction they use to keep at each other. If we combined our hatred of each other at the real problem they would not stand a chance to spend us to death.
BUTCH CASS, VIA E-MAIL

Mr. Burton claims that President Obama is the least-effective president he has seen, ignoring the fact that the GOP has obstructed any policy initiatives, stating quite openly that their goal is to make him fail. Why? Because any success for Obama (and the U.S.) is a threat to their party. They manufactured the debt crisis and have sown the wind. Sadly, we must now all reap the whirlwind.
ERIC BLOCK, VIA E-MAIL

We should kick both parties out of power and throw our votes toward competent, mature patriots. I would also like to point out how absurd it is that billions of people's livelihoods are contingent on arcane processes that 999 out of 1,000 of them can't control and don't understand.
JOHN DAVIDSON, VIA E-MAIL

What has happened in recent days with the budget is a teachable moment. The idea that 40 freshmen congressmen can hold the U.S. economy hostage is unacceptable. This is too much power for a small group of people to have. I hope that Americans rediscover the need for political power to reside in the states. If ultimate power were in state capitals, then the only thing politicians can destroy is their own respective states.
RICH MARIN, VIA E-MAIL

Robin Hood is just a myth

RE: "ACCOUNTABILITY OF PARLIAMENT": What legitimacy should be given to murderers, arsonists and thieves? These aren't the acts of people who feel government has been unjust. These are the actions of lawless dogs who are attacking their neighbors. They're setting homes and businesses on fire with people still in them. You want to rationalize hate crimes against people who work for a living. In the real world, someone always has more than you. That doesn't give you the right to knock them on the head and steal it. PATRICIA M. DEROBERTIS, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Being in a gregarious mood is likely to produce a more industrious you. Spending your time productively gives you a bigger lift than wasting it.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Business and pleasure can make a compatible mix if you know how to handle it. Be responsible and serious when discussing the job, and a free spirit when the work is finished.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Even if you should be a slow starter, there are strong indications that you'll still be a strong finisher. When you get out ahead, forget about looking back to check on the competition.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Plan your schedule so that it contains plenty of activities that involve mobility of purpose and freedom of movement. You aren't likely to be productive if you're anchored in one spot.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. You should be able to devote plenty of time to responsibilities as well as personal affairs if you can discourage others from hanging onto you.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Although you'll take all your involvements seriously, you'll still be quite philosophical about their outcome. This unruffled attitude makes what you have to do much easier.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Partnering with others for a common cause is your strong suit. Sharing something in common with another is an extremely rewarding pastime.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. As long as another is able to contribute something you can't, a partnership arrangement can be quite advantageous for you. Life is easier when someone is sharing the burdens.

Eagles nab Pro Bowler Smith

The Eagles agreed to terms on a one-year contract yesterday with former Giants wide receiver Steve Smith. The deal is reportedly worth $4 million, with $2 million guaranteed.

"It seemed like a great fit and that's how it played out," Smith said.

Smith is coming off microfracture surgery on his knee and was limited to just nine games last season. The 26-year-old is still rehabbing, but said he is "ahead of the curve."

"If it were up to me, I'd want to practice tomorrow," Smith said. "I'm pretty close. It could be Week 1 ... you never know."

According to league sources, the Smith signing has nothing to do with the mysterious illness that is keeping Jeremy Maclin off the practice field. The team still expects him back for Week 1.

"We feel very good about our current group of receivers and Steve adds another dimension to that position," coach Andy Reid said. "He's played very well against us in the past few years and we're happy to have him on board." METRO/MG

2-minute drill

Highlights from Andy Reid's day-before press conference:

- These guys won't play
  WR DeSean Jackson, WR Jeremy Maclin, DT Trevor Laws, RT Winston Justice, DT Mike Patterson, DE Brandon Graham
- Surgery updates
  DE Victor Abiamiri had surgery on right Achilles tendon, while S Marlin Jackson had a sports hernia repaired
- Playing order
  Ones will go in the first quarter, followed by the twos in the second, threes in the third and so on. After the first, there will be some "carry over," per Reid.

Michael Vick will play only the first quarter.

Storylines to watch

Preseason Week 1: Ravens at Eagles, at the Linc
When: tonight, 7:30 (6abc) Up next: at Steelers

1 Stuck in the middle.

Talk all you want about the Eagles revamped defense, the fact remains that the starting linebackers — at least the ones listed with the ones on the depth chart — are three very big question marks.

Moise Fokou will start at strongside; Jamar Chaney at weakside; and rookie Casey Matthews will call the shots at middle. All will be under intense scrutiny, especially Matthews, who will receive the play calls through helmet headphones and pass them on to his teammates.

2 Young and the restless.

Vince Young has struggled picking up the offense in training camp, but coach Andy Reid confirmed yesterday that he will get the second-team snaps in the second quarter.

While much has been made of Young's off-the-field baggage and unusual throwing motion, the 28-year-old has had success in this league — he's 30-17 as a starter in the NFL (30-2 in college) and has won 13 of his last 19 pro starts. Offensive coordinator Marty Mornhinweg used the words "bright" and "sharp" when discussing the former Titan. Time to show it.

3 In the line of fire.

Another unknown coming into this "dream" season is the offensive line, a unit that struggled mightily at times last season. While the left side seems pretty secure with Jason Peters and Todd Herremans, keep an eye on the rest.

Jamaal Jackson (center) will see his first action since reinjuring himself in last year's opener. Danny Watkins (right guard) is making his NFL debut after missing the first week of camp. And newcomer Ryan Harris will be counted on to protect Michael Vick's blind side, with Winston Justice still ailing. METRO

Road trippers

Phils sweep L.A.

Ryan Howard and Hunter Pence homered and helped the Phils to a 9-8 comeback win yesterday over the Dodgers.

Kyle Kendrick (7-5) got the victory in relief after starter Vance Worley fell behind 6-0 early.

The Phils, at 77-40, are 37 games over .500 for the first time since 1977.

Catches per game for Jahvid Best last season in Weeks 1 through 8. Now that Mikel Leshoure is out for the season, a healthy Best is a real threat to catch 80 balls. Upgrade, especially in PPR.

NFL training camp stock watch

The stock of these three players has gone down as depth charts begin to develop through practices:

1 Johnny Knox, WR, CHI — Roy Williams is starting at split end, Devin Hester is at flanker and Earl Bennett is in the slot. It doesn't make much sense, but Knox has been demoted.

2 Tim Tebow, QB, DEN — After looking lost at practice, Tebow no longer has the support of the locker room. Kyle Orton has won this competition already and will start in Week 1. Take Tebow off your sleeper lists.

3 Chris Cooley, TE, WAS — Cooley is struggling to regain health after offseason knee surgery. He will also be catching passes from either John Beck or Rex Grossman and will have to help the 'Skins' woeful offensive line often.

▶ Maurice Jones-Drew could be the next elite running back to find his career cliff. He had knee surgery this offseason.

NFL coaches hate players that are always hurt. When you are in the training room, you can't get better, can't get faster and can't be trusted.

Fantasy owners should have the same feelings toward injured guys. Older players off major injuries should be a red flag. Here are three big-name guys not worth gambling on:

MJD's knee

Maurice Jones-Drew had meniscus surgery this offseason after doctors diagnosed him with a "bone on bone" condition. Now he's limited in camp, is coming off two straight seasons of 330-plus touches and is on an offense where he's the only real weapon. The risk is too great for the first round.

Cold Colston

Marques Colston underwent microfracture surgery this offseason, the fifth knee surgery of his career. He recently sat out five straight days at Saints camp due to soreness, and it's questionable if he'll be able to regain his athleticism. Robert Meachem is ready to step in if Colston can't do it.

Shaky Gates

Antonio Gates is as tough as they come and the best tight end in the league. He is also still feeling the plantar fasciitis that bothered him last year. No one seems concerned, but the tight end position is so deep. Give me Jason Witten, Jermichael Finley or Vernon Davis a couple rounds later. Gambling on Gates isn't worth it.

HAVE YOU HAD EMPHYSEMA FLARE-UPS?

Taking A Statin Pill May Help.

The Temple Lung Center is conducting a clinical trial to find out if a statin pill, used to reduce cholesterol and prevent heart disease, can also help reduce the number and severity of emphysema flare-ups.

TO BE A PART OF THIS TRIAL YOU MUST:

- Have emphysema
- Be 40 to 80 years of age
- Be a current or ex-smoker
- Not be taking statins

You may receive a statin pill or a placebo (an inactive substance) and medical tests, including breathing and blood tests, at no cost during the trial.

The trial consists of 4 to 6 visits per year to the research facility, Temple Lung Center, for up to 2 years. You may receive $100 for the first visit and $50 for each following visit.

For more information, call 215-707-4260 or e-mail breathe@temple.edu

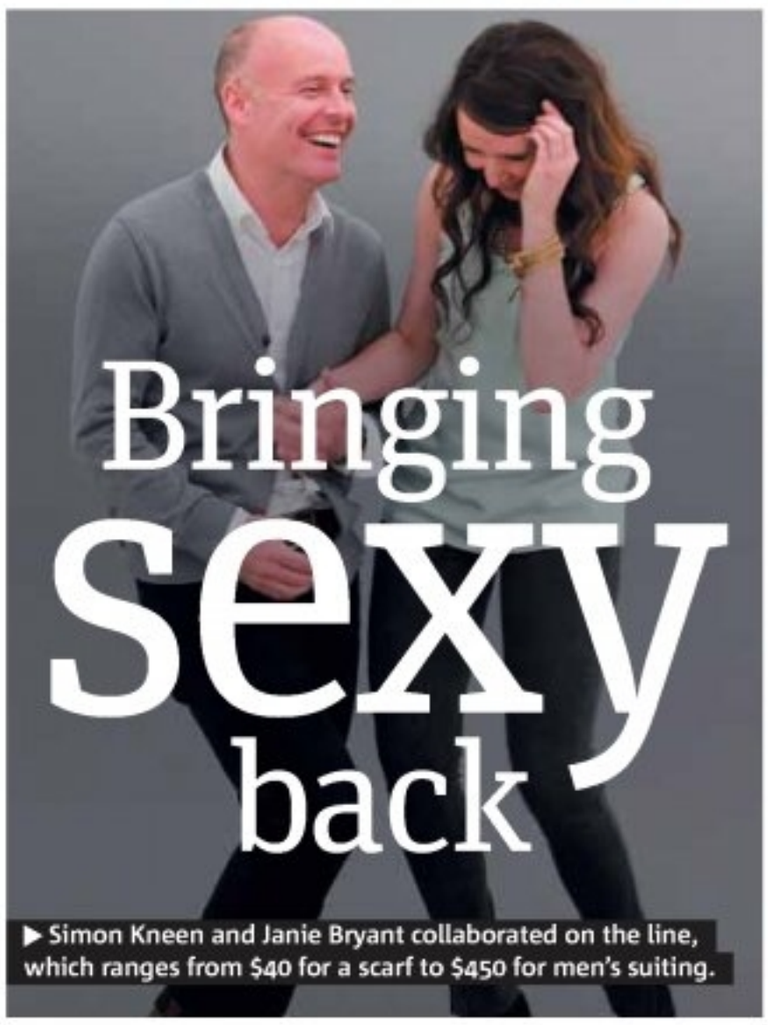
TO FIND OUT WHAT STYLES FROM THE '60S BRYANT THINKS ARE TIMELESS AND WHAT SHOULD NEVER COME BACK, READ THE FULL PROFILE ONLINE

Banana Republic collaborates with AMC and 'Man Men' costume designer Janie Bryant for a collection inspired by the stylish gang from Sterling Cooper Draper Pryce



Bringing sexy back

▶ Simon Kneen and Janie Bryant collaborated on the line, which ranges from $40 for a scarf to $450 for men's suiting.

As we wait — and wait and wait — for Season 5 of "Mad Men" to begin, we can quench our thirst for whiskeys at noon with Banana Republic's new "Mad Men"-inspired capsule collection. The line, about 65 pieces for men and women, is available at Banana Republic starting today and takes a modern approach to some of the greatest hits from Betty, Joan and Don's wardrobe. Expect to see animal prints, high-waisted skirts, chic tailored trousers, pocket squares and one smoking-hot tux that will make your boy feel like he's 2011's answer to Don Draper.

We spoke with Banana Republic Creative Director Simon Kneen and "Man Men" costume designer Janie Bryant to see how many Old Fashioneds went into making this suave collection.

What were some of your inspirations for the collection?
Janie Bryant: I drew inspiration from my favorite Mad Men pieces. I also have a few nostalgic pieces from my mother that my grandmother made in the '60s. A favorite is my mother's engagement dress that is a royal blue A-line party dress with embroidered lavender and navy roses.

Why do you think there's this fascination with '60s fashion?
Simon Kneen: What's not to love about beautiful, dressed-up tailoring? It's fascinating to see all the faults of the characters, yet they put on this facade of chic polish and panache.

Who do you think has the best style on the show?
SK: I love that Joan works her incredible silhouette so fashionably. Fit is everything, and I always encourage people to find the most flattering fit to complement their assets. Joan's a role model for that!

Did you guys have a whiskey or three to get into the vibe?
SK: Wouldn't that have been fun? It was actually over a strong cup of coffee at 6 a.m. that Janie and I first met. We had such a genuine connection and shared passion for tailoring and white shirts — we could talk for hours about white shirts!

Facebook to be 'destroyed' Nov. 5

Hackivist group Anonymous vows to "kill Facebook" on Nov. 5, citing users' lack of choice in privacy as its reason for attack.

Anonymous confirmed via a tweet that while some of its members are organizing the upcoming attack against Facebook, the hacker organization as a whole does not necessarily agree with the attack.

The group of hackers has claimed participation in just about every recent notable hacking attack of this year, and successfully broke into 70 law enforcement websites and took down the Syrian Ministry of Defense website this week alone.

READ THE FULL MESSAGE OR WATCH THE VIDEO AT WWW.METRO.US/TECH

This recent interest in Facebook, despite a slew of privacy concerns raised against the social network since its founding, may be a result of Anonymous's recent announcement that it plans to create its own social network, called AnonPlus. After the group's Google+ account, called "Your Anon News," was banned, it began fleshing out AnonPlus.com, "a new social network where there is no fear … of censorship."
